Capsized off Halibut Point Loaded to Gunwales With Anchors for U. S. Navy

THREE MEMBERS OF CREW LOST

Captain, Surgeon, Engineer, And Several Sailors drifted Far Out To Sea On life raft—Surgeon Drowned.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Halibut, Mass., Aug. 11.—Running before a westerly gale and loaded to her gunwales with anchors, the tug "Nezinscot," capsized off Halibut point today, carrying down with her three members of the crew.
Captain Evans, the boat surgeon, the engineer, and several of the sailors are drifting out to sea on a life raft. A dozen fishing boats and two life-saving crews are searching for the men who are known to be adrift.
Later.—Captain Evans and Engineer Boffo have been picked up by the life-saving crew and landed here safely. Dr. Trotter, the tug's surgeon, was washed off the grating and drowned.

EX-SOLDIERS PARADE IN SALT LAKE CITY

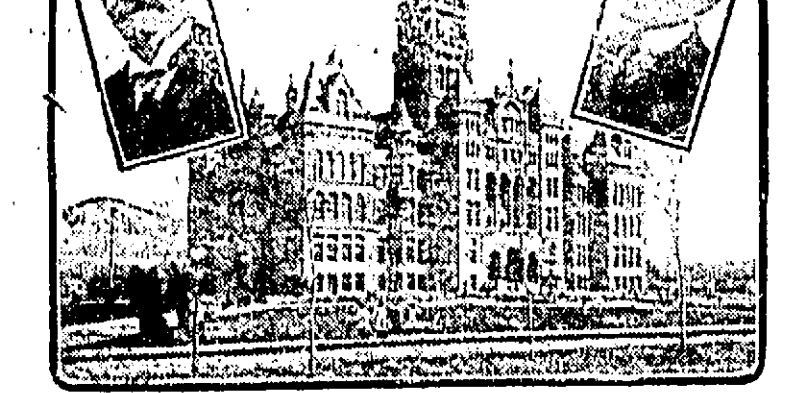

Grand March Today by G. A. R. Veterans Feature of the Encampment Being Held.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 11.—The largest crowd ever assembled in Salt Lake City today witnessed the grand parade of veterans, the spectacular feature of the Grand Army national encampment. With flags flying, bands playing and crowds cheering, the thousands of survivors of the array in blue took part in their forty-third annual parade. Officers, veterans and families throughout the city were crowded, and the people made the occasion a holiday.
The column started shortly after 10 o'clock. Along Main street for the distance of a mile the parade commenced and was reviewed by officials of the state and city and many distinguished guests representing all sections of the country. First in line came a squad of mounted police, followed by the grand marshal and his staff. Commander-in-Chief, Neel, and invited guests followed in carriages.
In the order given followed the bands of the various states in the order of seniority: Illinois, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maine, California and Nevada. Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Vermont, Department of the Potomac, Virginia and North Carolina, Maryland, Nebraska, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Colorado and Wyoming, Kansas, Delaware, Minnesota, Missouri, Oregon, Kentucky, West Virginia, South Dakota, Washington and Alaska, Arkansas, New Mexico, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi, Florida, Texas, Montana, Idaho, Arizona, Georgia and South Carolina, Alabama, North Dakota, Oklahoma and Utah.

Review Excellent Managed.
The great review was excellently managed in every way. All along the line of march were scattered ambulances, trained nurses and numerous other attendants to care for any of the veterans who might be overcome by fatigue and for spectators who suffered in the crush on the sidewalks. Fortunately their services were seldom needed.

After a good rest, the city's guests all turned out again this evening and witnessed the magnificent display of fireworks on the top of Bushy peak. This peak lies immediately north of the city and is the highest point of the Wasatch mountains, rising 1200 feet higher than Temple square. The pyrotechnic display is a nightly feature of the encampment week.

TAFT NOT TO VISIT MADISON AFTER ALL
President Will Fail to Pass Through Janesville on His Western Tour.
According to dispatches from the east this morning President Taft will not visit Madison on his coming western trip and hence will not pass through Janesville as formerly announced.
President Taft today added Milwaukee to the itinerary of his western trip. In order to include that city, it was necessary to cut out the brief stops that had been scheduled at Madison and Portage. Mr. Taft has stopped at Madison twice during the last two years, and as the pressure for a visit to Milwaukee was strong, he decided in favor of that city.
The presidential party will arrive in Milwaukee at 5:05 a. m., Sept. 17, and remain until 11:40 a. m., leaving at the latter hour for La Crosse. After stopping at La Crosse from 5:25 to 5:50 p. m., the president will proceed to Winona, the home of Chairman James Tawney of the house appropriations committee, where he will spend all of the evening of the 17th.

Marriage License: Application for a marriage license was made by George L. Murphy and Ellen Burns, both of Beloit.
Meeting Postponed: The King's daughters of the Baptist church will not meet this week.

Drunk in Court: Four men were brought before Municipal Judge Elford this morning to answer to charges of drunkenness. Newton Duncan paid a fine of two dollars and costs and was released; Fred Palmer, Charles Anderson and Otto Lent had sentences suspended on good behavior and John Reynolds, being unable to pay a fine, went to jail for five days.

Prosperity—Gee! it's great to be back in God's country again!

WILL CELEBRATE THE FOUNDING OF CITY

St. Louis Making Big Preparation for Centennial Celebration in Month of October.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

St. Louis, Aug. 11.—Preparations are rapidly progressing for the coming centennial of this city, and the event is arousing great interest throughout the country, especially in the middle west. The program of the centennial celebration, which will be held here during the week from October 2 to 9 of this year, to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of St. Louis, has just been issued and gives interesting information concerning the numerous features of interest which promise to make centennial week the most remarkable period in the history of the city since the close of the Louisiana Purchase exhibition.
Balloon, airship, and aeroplane races, under the auspices of the Aero club of St. Louis, host of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race of 1907, will be among the most spectacular features of the celebration. Various prizes will be contested for at each one of the races. Another interesting feature will be the various pageants by which the history and progress of the city since its foundation will be incorporated. There will be a water pageant, a municipal pageant in honor of the laying of cornerstones for municipal buildings to cost $1,500,000, an educational, historical and military pageant, culminating in the cornerstone laying of the city's new $1,000,000 public library, an industrial parade, the Villedu Prophet annual pageant with special centennial features and a centennial carnival in the downtown streets.

Funeral of Former Clinton Lady Today
Obsequies of Mrs. Cordelia Gates Conducted From Methodist Church This Afternoon.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Clinton, Aug. 11.—The remains of the late Mrs. Cordelia Gates arrived in the city this evening from Clinton, Colo., accompanied by Mrs. O. L. Woodward, who went there to bring the body to Clinton. The funeral will be held this afternoon from the Methodist church at two o'clock. Rev. John A. Collings officiating. The interment will be in the beautiful village cemetery. Cordelia J. Gates Phillips was born in state of New York, February 20, 1828. During her childhood her parents moved to the state of Illinois, settling at Fort Dearborn. The family moved to Lake Geneva, Wis., where she lived until September, 1853, when she was married to John C. Wilson of Croix, Ill., who died in September, 1889. In 1875 she was married to Joseph Gates of Clinton, Wis., with whom she lived thirty years. She is survived by one sister and three brothers, also by three daughters: Mrs. George Loveland and Mrs. Orrin L. Woodward of Clinton, Wis., and Mrs. Charles D. Abbott of Littleton, Colorado, with whom she resided during the last four years, and who she departed from this life on August 2, 1909. For many years she has been a member of the Methodist church, living an earnest, Christian life. She will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends and relatives.

MISS SANTA CLAUS A SUICIDE VICTIM

Elizabeth A. Phillips Ended Life at Philadelphia by Inhaling Illuminating Gas.

In George Washington's Parish
Colonial Beach, Va., Aug. 11.—With interesting ceremonies the corporation was laid today for the new Episcopal church to be erected in the parish where George Washington, first president of the United States, was born. Bishop Robert A. Gibson of the diocese of Virginia officiated at the cornerstone laying, assisted by many Episcopal clergymen of the neighboring parishes of Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

TOBACCO CROP IN POOR CONDITION

Plants Are Short and in Some Sections Have Begun to "Top"—Plants May Not Reach Average Size.

Prospects for a good crop of tobacco this year in this section of the country are not at all encouraging if the fields inspected by local tobacco dealers are any index to the general condition. On all sides of Janesville and especially to the north of Madison, in Crawford, Richland and Vernon counties, where several dealers have already inspected the fields, the outlook is very bad. At this time of the year when the plants begin to bud, it is possible to walk through many fields without finding a plant that reaches to the knees. Many fields are even shorter and farmers have already been compelled to begin toping.

The long drought is responsible for this condition and unless the weather continues to be of the most favorable kind—the 1909 crop will not nearly reach the average. It is thought by some that, as most of the fields were not set early, the lack of rain has sent the plant roots deep into the ground, and with favorable weather they will flourish and by the end of the season be up to average. Many of the dealers do not place much faith in this statement and feel that the present crop is almost, if not quite, a failure.

Although it has been said that dealers who are long on time and others who are short on time are just this condition of affairs in order that they may unload their holdings, the state, most has been denied by several who claim that with a good crop this year they could clear ten times as much as they would if the crop were a failure and the old stock in great demand.

Historic Old Building to Be Taken from Harper's Ferry to Be Used as a College Library.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Winchester, Va., Aug. 11.—Preparations are being made at Harper's Ferry to move the old John Brown fort from the Murphy farm, a mile or two from the town, to the campus at Harper's college. The old building is to be taken down carefully and re-erected in exactly the same size and shape as was the original. It will be used by the college as a library and museum.

SOLD BOOZE TO A SOCIETY GIRL

Ex-Proprietor of Irving Hotel at Fond du Lac Fined for Mixing Highballs for a Minor.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 11.—Having sold liquor to one of this city's society girls who is a minor, on April 20th, Charles Baker, ex-proprietor of the Irving Hotel, was arrested and paid a fine of $10 and costs. The society girl was one of a party who made short work of numerous highballs and cocktails in the palm-room of the hotel.

A RAILROAD MERGER IS BEING DISCUSSED

Soo Line Said to be Negotiating For Chicago Belt Line—What It Would Mean to Janesville.

If the railroad merger, which rumor says is being planned, goes through, Janesville will probably secure the benefit of three additional lines of railroad. It is said that the Soo line is striving to get more of the freight tonnage between Chicago and the Northwest and to establish a line from the Gulf of Mexico to the wheat fields of Canada. The Soo line recently purchased the Wisconsin Central railroad and through this latter line, it is reported, is trying to secure the property of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary railroad, an older belt road surrounding Chicago. The Chicago, Milwaukee and Gary railroad is but partially finished but when completed it will touch a number of the larger and more prosperous towns within easy reach of the Windy City. Janesville is one of the cities the route was planned to include. Connections with Chicago are now made through the Wisconsin Central but the freight traffic thus secured is not as heavy as the Soo line would desire, while with the belt line in their possession they would be able to receive and deliver the tonnage direct from all lines to and from their own trucks.

The belt line is now built between Rockford, Ill., and Delmas, Ind., and would under the present plans, when finished, connect with the Washburn roads. The Soo line would make connections with the belt road by laying tracks from the belt road by laying tracks from the Washburn roads in the rich coal country and with direct connections with this road and with the Northwest, the Soo line could build up quite a coal-carrying business.

The new deal if consummated would give Janesville service on the Soo line, the Wisconsin Central railroad, the Chicago, Milwaukee and Gary railroad and would give easy connections with the Washburn roads into Southern Illinois and Indiana.

IS ONLY SOLACE LEFT TO MOTHER

SISTER OF LIEUT. SUTTON TELLS OF EFFORTS.

TO DISCOUNT SUICIDE

Theory in the Case of the Late Marine Officer And Her Interview With Adams.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Annapolis, Md., Aug. 11.—When the court of inquiry, now investigating the death of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, Jr., opened today, Mrs. Sutton, mother of the dead marine officer, was recalled to the stand and identified two letters written by her son.
Mrs. Rose Sutton Parker, a sister of Lieutenant Sutton, told of interview in her room at Carvel Hall, with several young lieutenants. She asked that Adams see her alone inasmuch as he seemed ill at ease when she met him and because she believed he had information which he would probably not give her in the presence of others.
That interview lasted six hours. Relating what transpired, she said she asked Adams to tell her everything about her brother's death and not to spare her feelings; that Adams told her of Sutton's unpopularity with their brother officers and of the incident of a fight that followed an automobile trip to "The Damp." She said Adams said her brother went for weapons, having declared he would kill Adams, Utley, and Osterman; that in narrating the story of the final encounter, Adams told her he would not swear her brother committed suicide, but that he knew if Sutton had lived his own life would have been in danger—"that Sutton would have gotten me."

Adams also stated that Utley hated Sutton and had declared some one ought to "take it out of him." Adams had likewise told her that everyone in Annapolis believed he had killed Sutton. She disclaimed to him any such belief.
Mrs. Parker told Adams all she wanted was to prove her brother was not a suicide, because, were he, that, his mother would by her faith be compelled to believe her son's soul lost. She told Adams if she could do this, the case would be dropped.

Sergeant A. H. Todd, who was corporal of the guard on the night of Sutton's death, denied portions of an interview attributed to him, but said he did see the figure of a man running; heard commands to halt, threats to fire, and shots.
Taking with him several Huron Indians to paddle his canoe, "Nicolet" passed through Mackinac Straits and reached the shores of Green Bay, where the strange tribe was reported to live. "Nicolet," who was an experienced woodman and well-versed in the habits, customs and languages of the Indians, expected to find Chinese and was greatly disappointed when he found that the mysterious tribe, which lived near Red Banks, a high cliff on the eastern shore of Green Bay, were Winnebago Indians, an offshoot of the Dakota tribe. It was later ascertained that the report of their coming from a great salt water in the far west had originated from the fact that the tribe had once lived near some salt springs in the Winnipeg country, from which they derived their name.

MARKS DISCOVERY OF THIS STATE

COMING OF NICOLET CELEBRATED AT GREEN BAY.

BRONZE TABLET UNVEILED

At Red Banks, Where Great French Explorer First Met Winnebago Tribe of Indians.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 11.—This city is crowded with visitors from all parts of the state and from the surrounding states, who gathered here to attend the celebration arranged by the State Historical society and the Green Bay Historical society, to mark the 25th anniversary of the discovery of Wisconsin by Jean Nicolet. The celebration, which was informally opened yesterday, will close tomorrow and is attracting considerable attention among those interested in the history of this state and of the lake region in general. The main features of the exercises are the unveiling of a bronze tablet at Red Banks, where Nicolet first met the Winnebago tribe of Indians, and of another tablet on the site of the old French Fort St. Francis and the English Fort Edward Augustus and the opening as a public museum of the Tank cottage, the oldest building now existing in Wisconsin, which was erected in 1766.

The Plymouth colony was but fourteen years old, when, in 1634, Samuel de Champlain, then governor of New France, as Canada was called under the old French regime, sent Jean Nicolet, a trader, who had lived in Quebec many years, to explore the region of the upper great lakes. Champlain had been given by a chief of the Ottawa tribe, who was then visiting the fur market in Quebec, a large piece of copper, which, he told him, was from the west. In later years it was ascertained that the copper came from near Ontonagon, in the upper peninsula of Michigan, on the shores of Lake Michigan. Champlain had also heard that in the region of the upper lakes there dwelt a curious tribe of men who had come from a great salt water still farther west. Champlain was anxious to find the copper mine from which the piece of metal given to him had come and was also interested in the mysterious tribe, which he believed to be Chinese. His belief was due to the fact that he was under the impression that the American continent was other part of Asia or connected with it by land.

Taking with him several Huron Indians to paddle his canoe, "Nicolet" passed through Mackinac Straits and reached the shores of Green Bay, where the strange tribe was reported to live. "Nicolet," who was an experienced woodman and well-versed in the habits, customs and languages of the Indians, expected to find Chinese and was greatly disappointed when he found that the mysterious tribe, which lived near Red Banks, a high cliff on the eastern shore of Green Bay, were Winnebago Indians, an offshoot of the Dakota tribe. HIGH WAGES

The Wall Street Journal explains its attitude on the question of high protection and high wages. It goes into detail in an argumentative frame of mind and takes particular pains to give details of views it holds on this interesting question. In part it says as follows:

"It has caused some surprise among critics who take old shibboleths for granted; that this newspaper should have questioned the connection between high protection and high wages. That connection has never been established to the satisfaction of economists. There are at least as many arguments against that association as for it, and the state of public knowledge on tariff matters is so rudimentary that we cannot afford to take anything for granted.

"A number of phrases used and accepted as good political currency in connection with the tariff have been exploded. Experience has proved that the foreigner does not pay the increased duty. It has been shown in too many cases also that scientific protection for infant industries has been used as a convertible term for valuable privileges to industries perfectly well able to take care of themselves. And now we have seen the spectacle of reduced wages in highly protected industries and of wage advances in the face of revision down-wards.

"Are wages high in this country because of our tariff? Are there not other reasons why wages should be high? Labor is a commodity, like transportation and other services, and its price is governed by the law of supply and demand. An excellent reason for high wages here is the normal shortage of labor on any return to prosperity. What is called normal prosperity here, moreover, would be abnormal anywhere else. The opening up of a new country has, in fact, provided such a market for labor as the world never saw before. So much is this the case that wages in unprotected industries are as high as in those which enjoy the fullest tariff protection.

"Has the tariff much to do with the matter when we come down to plain facts? In Belfast and on the Clyde, Great Britain, a free trade country, can compete successfully with highly protected Germany in the building of ships, pay higher wages, and turn out the product faster than anywhere in the world. If high tariff really meant high wages, the German shipbuilders would be paying more than their British competitors.

"In our highly protected cotton spinning industries during 1905, 1906 and 1907 the demand for labor was so great that the spinners in the south and in New England were stealing each other's operatives and had to make an agreement among themselves not to do so. Dull times came, and wages were promptly cut, in spite of the tariff. It will be seen that high tariff did not maintain high wages, while it is now the universal complaint that commodities have advanced to such figures that even where labor combinations have been able to maintain high wages their purchasing power has failed to keep pace with the advance in prices.

"The worker is also the voter and it is necessary to keep these illusions alive if he is to be induced to vote for indirect taxation. Profits from high tariff at the best can only help him in a very limited degree. His benefit from protection in his own industry is debatable; but the burden placed upon him by high protection in other industries whose products he consumes is easy to demonstrate. "An equation showing the cost to the people of this country of our system of high protection with the distribution of that artificial product would probably show wages as the least considerable factor. The most considerable would probably be divided upon capitalization, like that of the Steel corporation; and a very large part would be found in administrative waste arising out of the irresponsibility engendered by indirect taxation."

Chicago still seeks a chief of police and does not know where to find one. Some of these men who can criticize so quickly ought to be given the chance of seeing what a fine job it is.

It will be necessary for the German manufacturers to combine about twenty of their strongest words to express their opinion of the new tariff law.

The ships are sailing overhead; they float upon the gale, their wings and thingumbobs outspread—and I shall tell you that; it is a pleasant thing to sport above THE AIRSHIPS the highest tree, but this old earth, where I am, is good enough for me. The aeronauts have averred that it's a joyous thing, to ride the zephyrs like a bird that soars on tireless wings; that such experience has worth, it is not hard to see; but this old earth, solid earth, is good enough for me. It's nice to win enduring fame, and medals by the peck; but I consider my fat frame, and likewise my fat neck, more useful than awards from thrones, or all the kingly that be, and this old earth, while I have bones, is good enough for me.

Profitable Philosophy.
Benjamin Franklin, premier printer and philosopher, when 16 read Tom Tryon's vegetable vagary, became a convert and thought fishing murder, but a noisy curiosity showed him little fish in the stomach of big fish. Franklin said if big fish eat little ones, it seems not wrong to eat big fish; also philosophized how convenient was reason, for it provides a good excuse and a reason for anything you want to do.—New York Press.

Strong Man's Creed.
I do the best I know. The very best I can; and I mean to keep right on doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me need not amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.—Abraham Lincoln.

Heart to Heart Talks.

THE NEWLYWEDS.

Many June brides are now suffering actual heartaches over the new and different problems of housekeeping. The honeymoon task is already cut out for her. In setting up the household gods of the new home severe tests have come to the inexperienced housewife.

You see, in the first place, there are husbands and husbands. One sort sympathizes with the perplexed wife and laughs good naturedly over her mistakes. May his tribe increase! Another sort—the spoiled darling of a doting mother—does not refrain from observing that—

"The kind mother used to make is different."

Or, "Mother does it this way." The obtuse young fellow does not realize how acutely sensitive on this point his wife may be.

Compliments are always odious, and especially to this matter. Mother's ways may be the best ways or not. That is not the point. Each young married woman, when she sets up housekeeping, has her own views.

Mother-in-law may put the dishes in the cupboard at an angle of forty-five degrees or lay them flat. She may place the broom in the corner right side up or upside down. It matters not. The young wife has her own idea as to the disposition of brooms and dishes.

And she is entitled to her way. So it is exasperating when Will's mother or sister notes the wife's way to observe, "Yes, that is good, but, you see, Will is accustomed to have it done this way." The young housekeeper resents this gratuitous advice.

And when Will himself suggests that "mother's way" is so and so it is like rubbing salt into the wound.

"Mother never had any trouble!" No, mother has been doing the thing over and over for a quarter of a century. Of course she has no trouble that Will can remember about. But Will's wife has been at the task for only a few days.

Poor young housewives! Do not hamper them by much advice. And do not criticize them nor institute comparisons with "mother's way," or grandmother's or great-grandmother's.

Take a cue, Madam Mother-in-law. Give the girl a chance to work out her own salvation.

And you, young fellow—be very helpful and very sympathetic. Your wife is doing her best to please you. And you, the bride of a month or so—why, you will smile on all these trials in the years to come.

JANESVILLE MAN IS TO GET HOMESTEAD

Edward M. Kay, Well-Known Pharmacist, Held No. 1734 in Drawing for Cœur d'Alene Lands.

Edward M. Kay, of this city, formerly employed as pharmacist for the H. E. Ransom Drug Company, was one of those who held a lucky number in the drawing for homesteads in the Cœur d'Alene Indian Reservation, which ended yesterday. Mr. Kay drew No. 1734. Other Wisconsin people who are included in the list of lucky ones are as follows:

100—Caroline M. Flagg, Milwaukee.
38—S. B. Driver, Madison.
1100—H. L. Wilcox, Stevens Point.
1342—John Johnson, Gillet.
1851—Sam Elmsworth, Superior.
1726—J. H. Cook, Neenah.
1818—C. K. Bender, Oconomowoc.
1975—A. C. Sayle, Madison.
1985—Ed. C. Maurer, Silzer.
2021—Thomas Duvall, Phillips.
2125—Fred Bodenstedt, Madison.
2141—Jennie E. Matthews, Oshkosh.
2162—J. W. Cunningham, Madison.
2213—Charles Rinn, Milwaukee.

There still are two more reservations for which drawings will be made in the next two weeks. On Thursday Miss Christine Donlan of Missoula will select the winners for the largest numbers of homesteads for the Flathead reservation, and on Monday at the opening of the drawing at the Spokane resort, Mrs. Mary Margaret Post, daughter of Frank T. Post of Spokane, will pick the first enrollees.

It is a matter of speculation with Judge Witten, superintending the land drawings, as to how many applicants can be given lands in the Flathead reservation, even if they draw lucky numbers. Under the reclamation act the government is likely to withdraw a large part of the irritable land in that reservation. Approximately 2,000 claims are to be had in this reserve, but the proposed reclamation of part will reduce the number by several hundred.

Judge Witten says he is unable to say how much the government was considering reclaiming, but it is likely to be some of the most valuable land. Should this be reclaimed it will be held for settlement until it can be put under water and will then be opened under a new drawing.

There are many of the persons who drew lucky numbers today who will be unable to get homesteads, as there are only 1,028 claims available for settlement. The drawing of 4,000 numbers was made to allow for withdrawals and failure to file claims on the land. Hundreds of those whose names are drawn today may never appear to claim a right to locate on lands. Thousands registered simply to have a chance of winning one of the first 50 or 100 numbers.

The majority of the winners in the drawing were poor men. They have received tidings which meant fortune. Hundreds who have won the chance to select claims worth from $20,000 to $25,000 are now in poverty. Laborers, poor workmen, widows, sons of widows, and school teachers are numbered to a great extent among the winners.

The World's Disease.

Demonstration of the Economy Fruit and Vegetable Jar

—AT—

SKELLY'S GROCERY

The Economy Jar is the only jar that actually seals. In it you can preserve any known article of food—vegetables, fruits, meats, game, fish, jams, jellies, soups—in fact it keeps anything sweet and sound for years.

POSITIVELY SURE SEAL—NO RUBBER RINGS.

Other jars depend on a rubber ring to keep out the air—the Economy seals itself and is guaranteed to be absolutely airtight.

THE ECONOMY IS AN IDEAL JAR

BECAUSE

It's the only JAR made that actually seals airtight. It has no rubber ring to leak air and spoil contents. It has no zinc cap to poison contents.

It has no screw top to cause hard work—so simple a child can seal it.

It has a wide mouth, permitting large fruit and vegetables to be preserved whole. It's wide, smooth mouth makes it easy to fill and clean. It has straight sides.

It has no rubber ring to decay and therefore will stay sealed for years.

It is the ONLY JAR that will keep all kinds of fruit, vegetables, meats, game, fish, soup and jellies.

It is the only airtight JAR used by professional canners and packers today.

It enables you to have all seasonable delicacies the year around for your table. Use the Economy every day in the year.

Our demonstrator, Mrs. Margaret Martin, will be glad to show you the many and dainty ways of preserving foods for years. She will also demonstrate the sanitary method used in the filling of these jars.

A single dozen of the Economy Jars will demonstrate all these points to you practically. Then you will never go back to the out-of-date styles.

Call and see them and let Mrs. Martin tell you all about them. We have the jars in three sizes: Fints at 25c, 40c, 50c. Quarts at $1.15 per dozen, and Half Gallons at $1.10 per dozen.

BIG DAY 'SPITE OF HEAVY RAIN

THIS CITY REPRESENTED BY OVER THREE HUNDRED.

AT THE EDGERTON PICNIC

Chicago Giants Defeated Janesville Stars 7 to 2—3,000 People on the Grounds This Morning.

Up to the time when the 10:35 train over the St. Paul road left the Janesville depot this morning, over 300 tickets to Edgerton had been sold at this point. It was necessary to put on ten extra coaches to take care of the crowd. Had it not been for the rain, it is certain that the 2:40 and seven o'clock trains would have carried out a crowd quite as large as the one which left here this morning and that the local attendance at the big picnic would have totaled over 600.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Wis., Aug. 11.—Father Matthews' Temperance and Benevolent society held its 24th annual picnic today. Some 3,000 people were on the grounds this morning when the baseball game between the Janesville Stars and the Chicago Giants was called.

Chicago Won Game
The game was won by the Chicago team by a score of 7 to 2. For Janesville, Edgerton played centerfield; Walter Currie, rightfield; Roy Palmer, leftfield; Jack Ward played first; Thomas Sullivan played second; George Miller played third; George Manley was in the box; John Hall was behind the bat, and Fred Porter played shortstop.

Locals Played Well
The totals were as follows: Chicago, 7, 0, 0; Janesville, 2, 3, 4. Up to the ninth inning Manley held the Chicago team down to three hits. Janesville played an exceptionally good game and was supported by a large crowd of spectators from the lower city. Fully one-third of the crowd came from Janesville, the 8 o'clock and 10:30 trains from that city being well filled with picnic visitors.

Rain Interfered
This morning a hard rain fell and seriously interfered with the sport of the afternoon. The baseball game between Edgerton and Cambridge will be played at 4 o'clock this afternoon if the weather permits.

At 11:30 a 300 purse event for an all trot or pace with seven entries was scheduled. A 2:40 trot or pace for a purse of $150, with ten entries, was also on the program.

Numerous athletic events, including foot races, tug of war, and other contests were booked for this afternoon.

Miss Florence Palmer winning the trophy for the Mabel Greenman, for four prospective September brides, and the guest of honor receiving a beautiful bouquet of roses. A delicious repast was served at small tables at the conclusion of the playing.

Mrs. Albert E. Bingham, Mrs. Maud Sloan, and Mrs. Malcolm G. Jeffris have issued invitations for a luncheon and kitchen shower to be given for Miss M'Key on Saturday of this week.

Mrs. Fred Sutherland will entertain tomorrow at a luncheon in Miss M'Key's honor.

STATE GOLF MEET AT BLUE MOUNDS

Janesville Is Represented by Team of Five in Preliminary Contest for Yule Cup Today.

Play for the Yule cup, the Wisconsin State Golf association's beautiful trophy, was to commence at the Blue Mounds Country club in Milwaukee at two o'clock this afternoon. It was expected that eight teams of five men each would be entered to play against today for an eighteenth hole, the team with the best score to be up on bogey or the least down to be the victor.

The state tournament proper starts at seven o'clock Thursday morning. Kenosha has entered 20 players; La Crosse, 10; and the other cities will be represented with delegation of from five to a dozen. In the team play Kenosha is regarded as the favorite.

MARY J. COEN HAS DISAPPEARED; ALSO HER MOTHER'S CASH

Feared That She Might Be Taken to Asylum for Mental Treatment—Police Looking for Her.

Late this morning Mrs. John Coen, who resides at 523 Fifth avenue, reported to the police that her daughter, Mary J. Coen, aged twenty-five, had disappeared from home, taking with her $200 of her mother's money and some of her sister's clothes. A description of the missing girl was furnished and officers were at once dispatched to watch both depots and the interurban station, but up to the present time, no trace of the girl has been discovered.

Miss Coen for some time has been mentally unbalanced and while not violent, has been under the care of Dr. Dudley. Yesterday she became aware of the fact that she might be sent to a hospital and the fear of this undoubtedly caused her flight. Careful inquiry on the part of the police failed to bring forth anyone who saw her leaving the home or enter a train. Miss Coen was described to the police as being twenty-five years old, with a fair complexion and black hair. At the time of her disappearance she wore a black dress and a black hat with two large black plumes. She also holds her right arm in a peculiar fashion due to the fact that at one time her forearm was fractured. Mrs. Coen stated that her daughter must have left the home at about 10:45 this morning, for at that time she was alone in the house, as her mother had stepped over to a neighbor's house for a few moments. None of the neighbors saw her leave nor did any of the plumbers who were working about the premises. Any information in regard to the young lady's whereabouts would be appreciated by the police.

The Secret of Old Age.
A novel method of attaining longevity was practiced by Mrs. Yotta Schulman, who died recently in New York at the advanced age of 105 years. Mrs. Schulman paid no particular attention to points of diet, exercise, sleep, etc., which usually figure largely in rules laid down for those growing old. She believed that the lives of aged persons could be prolonged if they associated constantly, or nearly so, with young people; and she apparently verified her theory, for she spent the greater part of her time in company with children, even taking part in their sports with lively interest.—Leah's Weekly.

CLAIMS STOMACH IS SEAT OF LIFE

Not Working Miracles, Just Helping Digestion, Says Janesville Visitor—J. P. Baker, Druggist, Appointed Wholesale and Retail Distributing Agents For This City.

An idea has recently sprung up in Janesville that has as its chief exponent W. Vurpillat, a young eastern man, who seems to be making remarkable headway with a new theory he has advanced.

Nothing with the possible exception of Christian Science has won a large following so rapidly as this Vurpillat theory. Christian Scientists claim that the mind is entirely responsible for ill health. Vurpillat, on the other hand, is positive the stomach is to blame for most sickness and has a remedy with which he claims to prove this theory.

In explaining his theory recently Vurpillat said: "I am convinced that the stomach is the actual seat of life. I regard stomach trouble as the cause of all the chronic ill health of this generation. It is caused by abnormal stomach conditions. In earlier days when the human race was closer to nature and men and women worked all day out of doors digging their frugal existence from the soil the food, digested, half sick people that are now so common, did not exist. To be sure there was sickness, but it was of a violent nature and only temporary. There was none of this half-sick condition all of the time with which so many are afflicted."

"In the home, the cow, the wild and make generally you see no chronic debility, no nervous exhaustion. It is because their stomachs are in a sound condition. They are not shut up all conditions. They are not stuffed with food when their bodies have not had enough work to justify it. The civilized races have been doing this for years, and look at the result—most of the people are half sick. They don't know really what is the matter with them. I have talked with thousands in various cities during the past seven years, and few indeed knew what their troubles were. One said nervousness, trouble with kidney trouble, another liver complaint, or constipation or heart trouble. Many had 'troubles' as they called it, for all of these diseases at various times. A very common complaint is all run down or tired all of the time, or no appetite."

"I am positive that every bit of this chronic ill health is due to stomach trouble. I know that few indeed can be ill with their digestive organs in a perfect condition. My New Discovery perfects the stomach in shape in from three to four weeks' time. It positively does nothing else, yet I have had more women, men, too, for that matter, come to thank me than I have time to talk with who claim that they were nervous wrecks before taking my discovery."

"I am not working miracles, as some hysterical people are claiming. My New Discovery is regulating the stomach, that is all there is to it, yet I have been just as successful in Albany, Rochester and Minneapolis, as in Janesville."

It is announced that J. P. Baker, the druggist, at Milwaukee St. would be the wholesale and retail distributing agent of the Vurpillat remedies for this city.

The office at 509 W. Milwaukee St. is open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. where consultation and examination are given free of all.

BOWER CITYITES AT TWO CONVENTIONS

Jesse Earle Read Paper Before Clerks of Court in Milwaukee—W. A. Scott Is With Firemen at Madison.

"Naturalization Week" was the subject of a paper read by Jesse Earle of this city at the opening session of the Wisconsin Clerks of Court Association in Milwaukee yesterday. Thirty members from the various counties were in attendance and additional delegates were expected. Fred W. Gords, clerk of the Milwaukee county circuit court, delivered the welcoming address and President C. A. Whitting of Fond du Lac, in his annual address, urged the lengthening of the terms of circuit court clerks to four years and the adoption of a uniform fee system. Technicalities of the naturalization laws were discussed by L. A. Kappa, special assistant U. S. attorney at Chicago.

Firemen at Madison
W. A. Scott of the Janesville department, who is attending the convention of the Wisconsin Firemen's association in Madison, was named as the chairman of the committee on credentials at the opening session yesterday.

Mayor J. C. Schaubert welcomed the visitors and the Madison department gave a spectacular run last evening, every piece of apparatus being called into action. A banquet to be held tonight at the Sherbrook hotel, in his annual address, President C. W. Heel of Madison expressed regret that deputy fire marshals are not chosen from the ranks of firemen. He said that firemen are best fitted for the positions, but the fact that they are not politicians disqualifies them from holding office. He also suggested that a committee be appointed to appear before the next session of the legislature and urge the strengthening of the firemen's pension law.

Joe Cantillon Will Relinquish Control of Washington Club
Joe Cantillon, the one-time Janesville resident who is to relinquish control of the Washington baseball club in October, tells the interviewer that he has absolutely no plans for the future. "Of course, I fully realize that little success has crowned my efforts here, but no one tried harder than I have."

Automobile Party: F. B. Jones, the Chicago limousine, and party, including Mrs. H. R. Mortimer of Chicago and T. Moore of Delavan, arrived here in a touring-car last evening. Mr. Jones has a summer home at Delavan Lake.

Baptist Prayer Meeting: The usual prayer meeting will be held at the Baptist church Thursday evening. Rev. Mr. Catchpole will lead.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

THE story-teller, like the poet, is born and not made.

But there are some "don'ts" of story-telling that even the most stupid raconteur can mechanically learn.

For instance, when you are telling a little anecdote, it really isn't necessary to inform your listener of every unimportant detail connected with the circumstances and persons involved.

"Was it Tuesday or Wednesday?"

So in the middle of her anecdote, the lady who is telling a story in that way, pauses and meditates.

It makes absolutely no difference in the point or progress of the tale whether it was Tuesday or Wednesday. She was simply telling you a bright remark, at an afternoon tea, that might have been made equally well Tuesday or Wednesday or any of the other five days "for it that."

And yet for at least five minutes she debates that point with herself arguing that it must have been Wednesday, because "I went shopping Tuesday afternoon," and that it couldn't have been Wednesday, because Alice never entertains them, and finally deciding that it was Tuesday after I got back from shopping. I got back at three o'clock, because I caught that new train they've just put on at 2:15."

Somewhere in Lamb's essays I found a footnote that makes me long to shake hands with him across the ages.

"There are some people," he says, "who think they sufficiently acquit themselves and entertain their company with relating facts of no consequence. They are careful always not to omit the minutest circumstances of time and place."

Evidently Mr. Lamb knew someone who paused to debate if it were Tuesday or Wednesday.

Another simple story-telling "don't" that anyone might learn to observe is not to repeat the point.

I know a man who tells clever stories. I would thoroughly enjoy hearing them if he did not always insist upon repeating the point. They are usually so very good that I laugh heartily at them the first telling. But I simply cannot do it again a half a minute afterwards.

His repetitions are as out of place and unwelcome as if a clock that had struck twelve insisted upon going on striking.

After a girl who had been cleverly telling a very funny story had gone out of the room, another girl spoke up disparagingly:

"Well, Elmer didn't make it half so funny as Gertrude did," she sniffed. "I was right there and I know. She always changes things that way when she tells a story. I think it's horrid."

If the changes Elmer made had been such as to injure anyone there might have been some ground for objections. But they were not.

They were simply such things as gave point and humor to her tale and kept us in a state of laughter. They were praiseworthy rather than objectionable, for anyone who produces a kindly laugh is a public benefactor.

The difference between Elmer's way and the sufferer's way is the difference between photography and art. The photographer gives us the whole, however insignificant. The artist suppresses the insignificant and adds the significant detail.

And we don't feel obliged to call the artist "horrid."

A Jump From A Locomotive.—Narrow Escape.—While Andy Maglow, an engineer on the C. & N. W. road, was running his engine over the road near Jefferson, yesterday, he thought he discovered something wrong in the machine and stepping out of the cab walked forward to the front end of the engine, while she was running about twenty miles an hour. Upon reaching the little flag staff used for the signal flag, he took hold of it to support his weight while he made some examinations. This suddenly broke and the engineer found he must fall or jump. He concluded to do the latter and giving a spring landed on the ground clear of the track but went over and over like a ball. Strangely to say no limbs were broken, and some severe bruises on his nose, face and breast were the only results of this new feat of ground and lofty tumbling.

Attempted Burglary.—Last night, or rather this morning about two o'clock, a burglar attempted to enter the house of Mr. Joseph James in the Fourth Ward. He had succeeded in unlocking the front door with a jimmy and was opening it cautiously when the creaking awakened Mr. James, who got up and went cautiously toward the intruder. Taking hold of the door knob on the inside with one hand, he gave a sudden pull and made a break for his game, but the fellow was too quick for him and disappeared through the gate and into the darkness beyond. Upon turning around to enter the house Mr. James found the gate would not close and looking to discover the reason found that it had been fastened open by a pair of new calf skin garters, the property of the thief who so narrowly escaped capture. These were taken possession of and are now in the hands of an officer.

The Canadian Pacific Ry. Wants Home Builders

3,000,000 acres of rich land is owned by this company. It wants farmers to settle this land and is offering especially low terms. It will sell you this land on a CROP PAYMENT PLAN (no crops, no pay) and will help you in many ways to build a home.

This land is in the Bow River Valley, Southern Alberta. Prices here now are at the lowest. The company have prepared a few very interesting little booklets for free distribution. You can have them for the asking.

Thousands of farmers are already engaged in building up this wonderful country. Men have been able to pay for their lands from a single crop.

This country is settling up much faster than the West settled, because the opportunities are the greatest ever offered.

Write me today for all information. It places you under no obligation. Just get the facts and decide for yourself after investigating.

WOMAN SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Attempt Made to Slay Mrs. Charles Dalley in Indiana.

Nashville, Ind., Aug. 11.—Mystery shrouds the attempted assassination of Mrs. Charles Dalley, 51 years old, who was shot from ambush and seriously wounded. Mrs. Dalley was riding in an open buggy and was on her way to Edinburg when she was shot.

As she approached a thicket near the roadside, Mrs. Dalley, who was driving a spirited horse, heard a peculiar noise. The horse became frightened and started to run away when a shot rang out. Physicians report Mrs. Dalley in a critical condition, buckshot from a shotgun having penetrated her back.

SPINSTER "GHOST" IS KILLED.

Slayer Mistakenly Nightgowned Woman for an Apparition.

Beranton, Pa., Aug. 11.—Miss Bridget Nolan, an elderly woman who lived in North Beranton, was slain with a cobble stone by John P. Dean, a neighbor. Dean is under arrest and admits the killing. He declares that the woman met death while playing ghost.

Dean said that as he sat outside his small store a woman dressed in white came up, jabbed him in the stomach with a broomstick and struck him across the arm. He picked up a stone and hit her. She was clothed in a nightgown only, and in this garb had frightened Dean.

The other day we saw an angry woman in a street car, and her face was anything but a pleasant picture. She was angry at the conductor, entirely without cause, and that made her look more terrible than if she had had a real grievance.—Nebraska Journal.

CHAPTER XXV.

THE TRIAL OF VON HILTZ.

THE next morning found the weather unsettled. There had been a heavy storm during the night, and a misty mist was blowing up from the north. Deppingham kept to his room, although his cold was dissipated.

Chase had been up nearly all of the night, fearful lest the islanders should seize the opportunity to scale the walls under cover of the tempest. All through the night he had been possessed of a spirit of wild bravado, a glorious exaltation. He was keeping watch over him, standing between her and peril, guarding her while she slept. His thoughts, however, did not contemplate the princess fair in a state of wretched insomnia, with himself as the disturbing element.

He looked for her at breakfast time. They usually had their rolls and coffee together. When she did not appear he made more than one pretext to lengthen his own stay in the breakfast room. "She's trying to forget yesterday," he reflected.

Sollin came to him in the midst of his reflections, bearing a thick, rain soaked envelope.

"It was found, excellency, inside the southern gate, and it is meant for you," said Sollin. Chase glacially flashed open the envelope with his fruit knife. He laughed ruefully as he read the simple but laborious message from Jacob von Hiltz:

"Where are your warships all this time? They are not coming to you ever. Goodbye. You got to die yet too. Your friend, Jacob von Hiltz. And my wives too."

Chase stuffed the blurred, sticky letter into his pocket and arose to stretch himself.

"There's something coming to you, Jacob," he said, much to the wonder of Sollin. "Sollin, unless I miss my guess pretty badly, we'll be having a message—not from Hiltz, but from Rasula before long. How are my cigarettes holding out?"

"They run low, excellency. Rasula has given all of her to me for you, excellency, and I have damaged those of the wives of Von Hiltz."

"Sollin, you must not forget that you are a gentleman. That was most ungentlemanly. But I suppose you got them?"

"No, excellency. They refused to give them up. They are saving them for Mr. Hiltz," said Sollin dejectedly.

"Ah, the fickleness of women!" he sighed. "There's a new word for you, Sollin—fickleness."

It was for just midday when he heard from Rasula. He had seen the princess but once, and then she was walking briskly, wrapped in a rain coat, followed by her attending dogs and her two Hapsburg soldiers. Somehow she failed to see Chase as he sauntered hungrily, almost imperceptibly, across the upper terrace, in plain view. Perhaps, after all, it was not the weather.

Rasula's messenger came to the gates and announced that he had a letter for Mr. Chase. Rasula had this to say:

"We have reason to suspect that you were right in your suspicions. The golden plate has been found this day in the cave below the chateau, just as you have said. This much of what you have charged against Jacob von Hiltz seems to be borne out by the evidence secured. Last night there was an attempt to rob the vaults in the company's bank. Again I followed your advice and laid a trap for the men engaged. They were slain in the struggle which followed. I have to inform you, sir, that your charge against Jacob von Hiltz does not hold good in the case of the bank robbery. Therefore I am impelled to believe that you may have unjustly accused him of being implicated in the robbery of the treasure chests. He was not among the bank thieves. There were but three of them—the Hapsburgs, Jacob von Hiltz came up, himself, and joined us in the fight."

"Why not, Mr. Chase?" She tried to speak calmly, but she was trembling. After all, she was a slender, helpless girl—not an Amazon. "I saw and heard everything. They won't believe me unsupported. They won't harm me. If I swear to them that what you say is true they will."

Her hand was on his arm now, trembling, eager, yet charged with fear at the prospect ahead of her. He clasped the little hand in his and quickly lifted it to his lips.

"I'm happy again," he cried. "It's all right with me now." She withdrew her hand on the instant.

"No, no! It isn't that," she said, her eyes narrowing. "Don't misinterpret my coming here to say that I will go. It isn't because—no, it isn't that!"

"I was unhappy because you had forsaken me," he said gently. "You are brave—you are wonderful! But I can't take you down there. I know what will happen if they find him guilty. Goodbye, dear one. I'll come back—surely I'll come back. Thank you for sending me away happy."

"Won't you let me go with you?" she asked after a long, penetrating look into his eyes.

"I would not take you among them for all the world, Von Forget. Neither of us would come back."

"Neither of us?" she said slowly. . .

HARRY THAW HITS EXPERTS

ISSUES HOT STATEMENT ON EVE OF JUSTICE MILL'S DECISION.

SAYS HE IS PROVED SANE

Includes Jerome in Attack and Declares Prosecutor Showed Him Mentally Sound Forty-Five Times Over in Fifteen-Hour Grilling.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Justice Mills will render his decision tomorrow in the case of Harry K. Thaw and on the eve of learning his fate the slayer of Stanford White has issued a signed statement in which he scores the insanity experts and District Attorney Jerome.

BY HARRY K. THAW.

The following is all I have to say about the trial:

Mr. Jerome's witnesses were an unprofessional lawyer and an unfortunate woman who contradicted each other, also three of his peculiar allusions and Dr. Baker, who, from his testimony, might have been on either side, except that he showed some unfriendliness to me and could not remember many admissions he had made to me and to Dr. McGinn.

Dr. Baker admitted he did not believe in souls because he had never seen any. Dr. Hirsch affirmed that their profession was incompatible with religion. Dr. MacDonald and Dr. Flint refused to believe what Jerome had solemnly stated to a jury, so I hardly think any judge could believe any of them.

The best experts have informed me that if any insane man was questioned for 20 minutes, as Jerome questioned me, he would assuredly show his insanity. As Jerome kept this up over 15 hours in all during the trial, he proved me sane 45 times over, for the allusions said any 20 minutes during his 15 hours of wild and extraordinary questions would have settled any paranoiac.

Other Testimony Worth More.

However, I might have failed as other sane men might have, so I don't consider my testimony one-tenth so important as the 20 allusions who personally examined me and in the records have sworn I am sane, or the testimony of 62 lay witnesses. Mr. Jerome at the second trial, after telling the jury why he had not produced Dr. Flint, etc., said he would submit the case to human intelligence.

William de Morgan relates the following conversation to the same point:

"A great allusion is going to operate on a woman who has been unconscious for 40 years and desires clear knowledge of her mental state if she regains any mental faculties. So he asks his wife and her friend to watch. The doctor tells them, 'I don't want you to see anything of the operation, but what I want is to have one or more good observers at hand and I want everything observed and recollected.' His wife replies: 'Why don't the people at the asylum do so, why us?'"

"Because," answered the husband, "each of them has a theory and none of them will recollect anything that don't agree with it. I want real live human creatures of good average intelligence."

Find Him Perfectly Sane.

It seems to me I must be perfectly sane if head-headed, sensible men who slept in the same room with me, saw me undress and go to sleep and wake up, then eat my breakfast, dinner and supper and who took me up on the mountains where I could have left them miles behind had I not been trustworthy. These and many other things, headed by President Patton of Princeton, and ladies, some of whom have known me all my life, and bankers and manufacturers and police and prison keepers accustomed to observing both sane and insane men. Also city clerks, editors, farmers, lawyers and the ex-governor of a great state, all find me perfectly sane and none find anything irrational at all.

This seems to me to prove my sanity ten times better than whether or no I could handle Mr. Jerome in a 14½ hours' debate on every possible subject except the alleged delusion which he did not seem to want explained. Maybe explanations would have spoiled his hypothetical question.

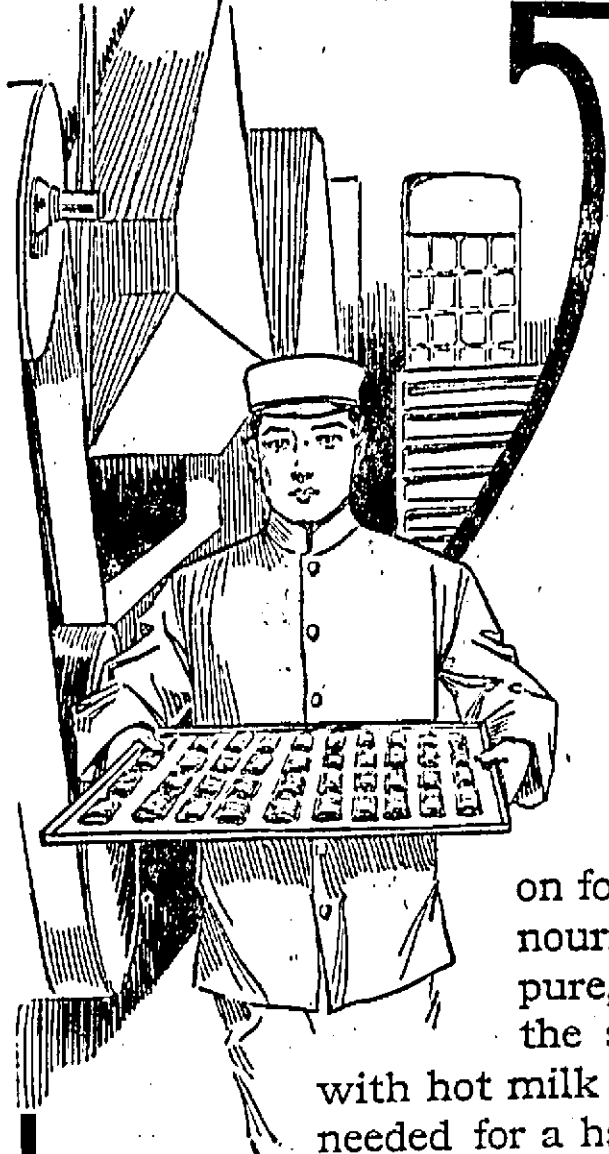

Eleven Elephants on Rampage.

Clay Center, Kan., Aug. 11.—For two hours the people of this town were terrorized by 11 elephants which escaped from a show and stampeded through the streets. The trouble started when a small dog bit a heel of one of the elephants. The beast at once began to trumpet and break through its keeper, ran away. The other ten elephants followed their leader.

Eleven Perish in Hotel Fire.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 11.—Eleven lives were lost when the Okanagan hotel at Vernon, B. C., was burned. The building contained about sixty guests. Ten bodies have been recovered.

MURDER CAFFEES THE POLICE.

Attempt to Find Slayer of Girl in Cemetery Falls.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Neither the highest in the number of Anna Schumacher nor the search that has been continued by county and city police officials has afforded anything like a substantial clue to the man who assaulted and brutally killed the 17-year-old girl near Holy Sepulcher cemetery.

The innocent character of the girl was easily established and the opinion is generally entertained that the murderer was not a tramp, but someone familiar with the vicinity in which the crime was committed and who is now in the city or near it.

Efforts are being made to find a young woman, who, it is said, was with Miss Schumacher when she was decorating the graves of her family last Saturday afternoon. Two suspects were arrested at Victor, in Ontario county.

Confesses to Mail Robbery.

Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 11.—Walter Meyer, aged 19, son of a prominent Vincennes (Ind.) man, was arraigned in the federal court and confessed to robbing the mails of drafts worth $3,000. He had been tracked to the coast by post office Inspector William Eln, of Indianapolis.

LIVE WIRES.
Baron Uchida who may succeed Takahira as ambassador from Japan.

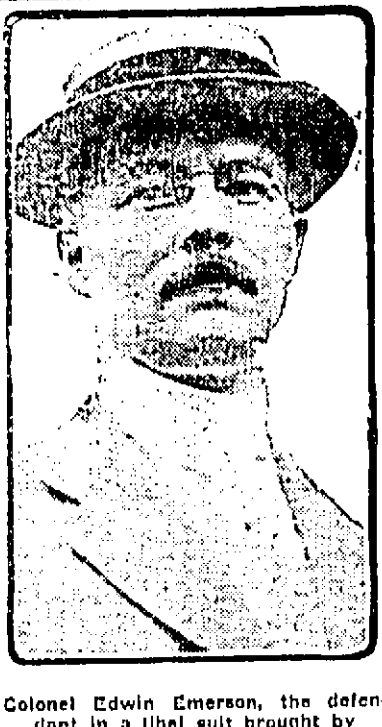

Washington, D. C. Should Ambassador Takahira's trip home result in his recall, as is suggested by many who are cognizant of the situation, he will undoubtedly be succeeded by Baron Uchida, who was one time attaché of the Japanese legation at Washington. Uchida knows American and American customs very well and his experience at the Japanese embassy at Vienna during recent years will well fit him for his work in America. It is believed that when he succeeds Mr. Takahira the latter will be promoted to Komura's post.

BISHOP McFAUL WHO CHARACTERIZES AS "LUDICROUS," THE RELIGIOUS PROPHECY OF DR. ELIOT.

Trenton, N. J.—The Rev. James A. McFaul, head of the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton, has taken exception to the recently expressed views of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard, who announced the advent of a new religion, the character of which the religious prophecy as "ludicrous" and in a very sarcastic vein criticized the great educator in attempting to prophesy a religion of the future.
James August McFaul is one of the best known bishops in America. He was born in Ireland fifty-nine years ago and received his early education there. After coming to America he attended St. Vincent's College, the college of St. Francis Xavier and was graduated in 1873 from Seton Hall South Orange, N. J. Soon after his graduation he was made secretary to Bishop O'Farrell at Trenton, N. J. With the exception of seven years spent as pastor of churches at Long Branch, N. J., he has remained in Trenton ever since. Upon the death of Bishop O'Farrell in 1891 he was appointed bishop of Trenton.
Bishop McFaul's work in reorganizing the American Orders of Bishops and his notable articles and addresses on "American Citizenship" have demonstrated his ability as an organizer, a clear thinker and a broad man.

Capitalistic Reflections.
The pronoun "I" and the interjection "O" are never written without using a capital. Let "I" be added, and it signifies that the writer has got no capital at all.—Judge.

Colonel Edwin Emerson, the defendant in a libel suit brought by Guatemala.

New York City.—Another hearing was held yesterday before Magistrate O'Connor in the case of Manuel Estrada Cabrera, president of Guatemala, who through counsel, has brought suit against Colonel Edwin Emerson author of an article in the United States magazine in June declaring that conditions in Guatemala were exceedingly bad.
The witnesses so far produced by the defense have tended to show up the chaotic conditions in Guatemala and have made some startling statements.
The first witness was John Fisher of San Francisco, a banker and merchant who lived in Guatemala for almost fifteen years. He stated that politically and economically Guatemala is declining instead of advancing. The value of a dollar is only 5 or 6 cents at the present time, while in 1898 it was worth 35 cents and before that 82 cents. This decline was due to the enormous quantity of paper money which Cabrera and his immediate predecessors had printed out to meet current expenses. Since 1898 the government has paid no part of the national debt, said Mr. Fisher, nor interest on the same except in 1901, when English warships forced a small installment.
Joseph P. Durkin, an attorney of 116 Nassau street, testified.
"I went to Guatemala in 1901 to assist in the settlement of the estate of a New York woman. To every case at law there is a president's side and an opposition. It is very usual for the president to direct that no one appear for one of the parties in the case at issue. I took the case of Samuel Fisher brother of the witness who appeared before me, and of Heinrich Neutze, and was thereupon summoned to the place and directed not to appear for either man. When I appeared for Fisher, however, I was treated with marked discourtesy, and on leaving court was arrested and taken to prison three days later. There I found conditions horrible beyond description. We were treated worse than the political prisoners. Though I saw no executions myself and no whippings at least two men, in my belief, were killed there at the time, one a Spanish writer and poet, the other an Italian gentleman. The latter, it is believed, was poisoned and the former whipped to death."

Field for American Medicine.
Brazil is offering an alluring field to the American makers of patent medicines, as against the standard proprietary medicines there exists no prejudice on the part of Brazilian doctors or their patients.

Montana Golf.
"On a train in Iowa," said the young man from Boston, "I met the champion golfer of Ohio, and as I am something of a champion myself I followed that of a champion myself the game. We had a lot to say about the game, when the train behind us, who was a bit tough in dress and looks, rose up and said: 'Gents, you've talked golf so much that you've got me interested in the game, and I'm going to make hold to ask you to do me a favor.' 'Then producing a pack of cards from his pocket, he continued: 'One of you just sit down and let 'em come.' 'We explained to him that golf was not played with a pack of cards, and went on to tell him all about it. When we had finished he said: 'Well, maybe it's interesting, but I think Montana golf beats it all to pieces.' 'It was draw poker, and at the end of an hour he had won 750 pieces from us, when we decided to draw out, and he smilingly said: 'No walking—no kneeling—no nothing except a pack of cards. You just sit right still and smoke and take in the look and feel that this is worth the big bag.'"

The Wise Man.
Mr. Men, you have had your two weeks off and taken your vacation. You were singing for the country and its meadows and woods, and you engaged board with a farmer.
You didn't like the food. You didn't like the board. The fresh vegetables were not fresh. The milk from our own cows wasn't up to the mark. All the shady spots were pre-occupied by the fat woman and her kids. The robins didn't do any singing by day and the whippersnappers weren't picking up at night without pay in advance.
You strolled in the meadows green, and the humble bees made it hot for you. You sat down beside the babbling brook and your dollar straw hat floated away on the bubble.
You looked for romantic girls and found them in possession of droves of hogs. You sat on the veranda to welcome the robins of the harvest moon, but she was taking it easy and didn't rise.
You got out of bed early for the next time in years to see the sun come up and shine down on a word of goodness, but it was a cloudy morning or the fog was thick enough to cut with a knife. You took up a two-dollar bathing suit, but you balked at sight of the horsepond. You took up a five-dollar bathing outfit and caught one little feller.

To yourself and to others you called the former a blamed old swindler and asserted that he ought to be written up in the papers. You kicked all the time that you were away, and now you mean to kick that you've got home. Don't do it. It'll all wear off in a month, and when next summer comes you'll do just as you did this summer—go back to the same place.

Conceded Man Never Popular.
A man who shows himself too well satisfied with himself is seldom pleased with others; and they, in return, are not disposed to like him.—La Rochefoucauld.

Introducing New Fashions in Fall Suits
OUR initial showing of Fall Suits is now being made. The present emphasis is upon our specialty, the strictly tailored suit, although the more dressy model is well represented.
Fabrics range from hair-surfaced diagonals to the softest of imported broadcloths and serges.
You will find the practical features have again been combined most successfully with little touches which make for that novelty and exclusiveness which invariably marks the Big Store's garment. Styles are extra length two and three piece garments, semi-fitting empire styles; plain tailored, fancy weaves, panel backs and fronts, box pleats, slash effects. Colors are hunters' green, different shades of smoke, taupe, new drabs, newer browns and wistaria. In trimmings, jet has first call, with black soutache braid and Bengaline a close second; another novelty is buttons cloth covered with jet centers.
Long Cloth is Receiving Favorable Mention
Women look at it and say, "Isn't it fine quality?" This comes in lengths from 2 to 12 yards, 40 inches wide, 25c quality 12 1/2c.
If you want wash silk waists think of the "Laundricio," a satin finish silk material in pretty light stripes, washes well, 19 inches wide, 75c quality for 58c.
If you want bedding think of the sheets made of good bleached cotton, patent flat seam hemmed ends, sizes 2x2 1/2 yards, sold in the city basements at 48c each as a great bargain, we have some left at 39c.
The 15c pillow cases, sizes 36x46, made of good soft finish bleached muslin; our price 12 1/2c, by the dozen $1.35. Or the pillow case we have, some hemmed, other hem-stitched, sizes 42x36, 45x36, 45x38 1/2 and 50x36, made of Fruit of the Loom, Atlantic, Peppercall and Langdon sheetings, at 16c, 18c, 22c, 25c, 27c. The seamless Peppercall sheets 63x90 at 60c. The 81x90 sheets for double beds, Harvard Mills, at 65c. Peppercall at 75c. Atlantic at 80c. All made with double hems.
If you want anything else in the bedding line such as feather pillows, ticking, wide sheetings, you will find us "Johnnie on the spot."
Such bargains as the above and many more are what attract the buying public to the BIG STORE and make an increased volume of business during the usual quiet summer months. Plenty of room in The Big Store for an army of buyers. Drop in often and not only see the bargains offered in order to reduce stock, but to learn about all the new things being constantly received.
How About Your Fall Shopping?
We have sold many substantial bills of late to people who have to buy fall goods early for one reason or another. Many have been agreeably surprised at finding new things that they hardly expected to see so early. The Big Store is "up and dusting." If you have a dry goods, ready-to-wear, curtain or rug want, come to headquarters.
